

Lured by promises of daily profits and overseas travel, 40,000 people borrowed and sold off their properties in order to invest in what turned out to be a multinational scam.