

Paediatricians find workarounds to official ban on recommending formula milk in prescriptions to reap benefits from manufacturers despite the health risks posed to infants.