

The government spent billions to set up local youth clubs for teenagers in every union and municipality, but the local government officers have never heard of them, even though annual funds are shown to have been spent on seemingly unprovable activities.